STUDYING FISHERIES.

Two Eminent German Officials
Were Here Yesterday.

Found Much to Impress and Received Considerable Information

The extracts from the report of the Massachusetts fish and game commission, which, with illustrations, were widely published in Germany, created much interest among those interested in the fisheries of that country. As a result the German government has sent to this country Prof. H. Henking of Hanover, general secretary of the German sea fisheries association, and Mr. Heidrich of Memel, Germany, one of the royal fish masters.

They called on Capt. Collins, chairman of the fish and game commission, Monday, and told him that they were here for the purpose of studying the fisheries of this state, with special reference to the utilization of power-driven dories, the introduction of which in the German fisheries, it is thought, will be very advantageous. Letters of introduction were furnished them to parties in Gloucester, Provincetown and Truro, in which places they will spend more or less time in studying the various fishery industries as carried on at these places.

Capt. Collins also took them to the Boston fish bureau, where they were introduced to Sec. F. F. Dimick, who gave them information as to his method of collecting statistics of the fisheries and transmitting information to the correspondents of the bureau.

The distinguished gentlemen came here yesterday and were taken in charge by Collector Jordan, who showed them about the wharves and shipping and curing establishments, giving them every opportunity of seeing the methods of taking out fish and also how they are cured, put up and shipped. They also spent an hour at the Board of Trade carefully inspecting the method of securing and posting the fishing arrivals, and the way of tabulating and preserving the statistics of the fisheries. The gentlemen were much pleased with the completeness of the system and told the board's statistician, Mr. Arthur L. Millett who explained the department to them, that it was the most thorough and complete they had seen. They departed for Provincetown on the 6.29 train.

1,200,000 LOBSTERS.

Large Amount of Fry from Local
Hatchery Deposited in Maine
Waters.

A consignment of 1,200,000 lobster fry were received from the Ten Pound Island Hatchery at Portland on Monday afternoon and were at once taken to Great Diamond Island, and liberated. On Tuesday a similar number was again received.

The work at this port is in charge of the United States Fish Commission Grampus.

The fry put over will probably be full grown lobsters in five or six years.

ROCKPORT.

Old England Hake.

A large number of young men and boys are finding enjoyment every evening now by fishing for Old England hake in the bay.

MORE GOOD FARES.

Seiners Still Bringing Good Trips into Newport.

Over 1700 Barrels Salt Mackerel at This Port This Morning.

The arrivals of the seining fleet with good fares of mackerel still continue and since yesterday afternoon there has been brought into port over 1700 barrels of salt mackerel, and fares of fresh mackerel aggregating about 200 barrels.

The following vessels have arrived:

Sch. Victor, via Boston, 320 bbls. salt mackerel.

Sch. Veda M. McKown, Cape Shore, 400 bbls. salt mackerel, 70 bbls. fresh mackerel.

Sch. Seconnet, via Boston, 325 bbls. salt mackerel.

Up to noon, none of the salt trips in port had been sold, the price remaining at $9 per barrel.

A dispatch from Provincetown says that a large number of the men of the drift-netting fleet operating off New Bedford have arrived home for a visit among relatives, the presence of huge bands of hungry dogfish having caused a temporary abandonment of the fishery. These men rejoined their respective craft yesterday.

The drift-netter Pearl is en route from New York to New Bedford to join other town boats. The Pearl (four men) has stocke $1700 to date. The Active (four men) has stocke about $4000, and is supposed to be the high liner of the Provincetown drift-netting fleet, although the Lear C. has marketed fish worth little, if any, short of that amount, while the John W. Caswell is well abreast of these leaders.

The dogfish promise to work havoc with drift-netting work at all points east of the New York fish grounds.

The Dominion fishery bureau reports mackerel fair at Lunenburg, Whitehead, St. Peter's, Canoe, Arichat; plentiful at Salmon River, very plentiful at Louisburg; schooling off Queensport; boats averaging 400 fish at Ingouish and fish being netted at Alberton.

A TANTALIZING FISH.

The Ways of the Salmon Are Beyond Finding Out.

Who knows the way of the eagle in the air or of the salmon in the sea? Of all fish the most tantalizing, he has been the life study of thousands of men. Yet how little any one really knows about him, and how conflicting is the testimony as to what is known! If you want to get the idea that there is no such thing as abstract truth, you can form that opinion quickly by sitting in front of the fireplace in a fishing club some evening when the most experienced members are present and feel like talking. There is scarcely any proposition connected with the life history of this fish upon which any two men of forty or fifty years' experience in salmon fishing will agree. The biography of the fish is filled with puzzling blanks. You catch a glimpse of him in his infancy. He mysteriously disappears, returns during adolescence and then is gone again until, on his third appearance, the infant has grown to be fully mature. Who would think the childish smolt of a few ounces that slips quietly down river in the early spring could come back the same summer in the pride of youth as a three or four pound grilse? And the next time he goes upon what meat doth he feed that he jumps to maturity and ten pounds weight? What ports does he visit while he is off on his deep sea cruise? Where does he keep the chart by which, after his far away wanderings, he unerringly returns to his birthplace? And why do many grilse come to some rivers and comparatively few or none to others? In Miramichi waters there are in August ten grilse to every full grown salmon. In the Tobique there are scarcely any grilse at all.—From "The Trout of the Neplisquit," by Frederic Ireland, in Scribner's.

Salt Mackerel Sales.

The salt mackerel fare of sch. Veda M. McKown was purchased by Fred L. Davis for $9 a barrel.

Sch. Seconnet went to Boston with her fare of salt mackerel this noon.

The fare of sch. Victor sold to Fred L. Davis and that of sch. Corsair to Fred Bradley at the same figures.

Caplin Struck In.

Caplin in considerable quantity made their appearance last Friday morning at Holyrood, N.F., and in the evening the waters were teeming with them. This is the first authentic account of this bait fish striking in and the fishermen hope to make good catches with them.

Good Stocks.

Sch. Veda M. McKown, Capt. Benj. Spurling, stocked $4500 on her recent Cape Shore trip, the crew sharing $97.

Sch. Corsair, Capt. George Hamor, stocked $3645.00 on her recent Capt. Shore trip, the crew sharing $80.50.

Bait.

A dispatch from G. W. Short of Newburyport states that he has plenty of bait there.

There are plenty of bluebacks at Newburyport.

MAIDEN TRIP.

Sch. Lucania Has Fine Fare For First Trip.

The new sch. Lucania, Capt. Martin Welsh, which arrived at Newport yesterday morning with 50 bbls. of fresh and 300 bbls. of salt mackerel, has been gone but a short time, and it seems that the skipper and crew have lost no time in finding the schools. The crew should realize a fine share as a result of their first trip in the new craft.
